CAMP DIRECTOR DAVE SCHRAGE

Dave Schrage - whose 19 years as a college head coach include 16 seasons at the Division I level, most recently with a University of Evansville squad that ranked among the nation's hottest teams during the 2006 postseason - was introduced July 18, 2006, by athletics director Kevin White as the 19th head coach in the history of the University of Notre Dame's baseball program. Schrage just completed his fourth year at Evansville while guiding the Aces to the most successful season in the program's history, highlighted by winning the Missouri Valley Conference regular-season and tournament titles, reaching the NCAA regional championship round and earning a final national ranking of 19th in the Collegiate Baseball magazine poll.

The previous four stops in Schrage's head coaching career - most recently at Northern Illinois (2000-02) and Northern Iowa (1991-99), prior to his move to Evansville - have seen him mold unproven teams into record-setting units, with several seasons in his 19-year career spent rebuilding under-funded programs while earning him top honors on the conference and national levels. A lifelong fan of Notre Dame's athletic teams and a former standout centerfielder at Creighton, the Chicago native now is set to accept a new challenge in his coaching career as he takes over the reins of one of the nation's top baseball programs. Notre Dame owns Division I baseball's fourth-best winning percentage during the current decade (.728; 324-120-3 from 2000-06) and the Irish are one of just 10 teams to advance to the NCAA Tournament every season since 1999.

Schrage is one of just five coaches in the history of Missouri Valley Conference baseball who have been named MVC coach of the year three or more times, with only two - Wichita State's Stephenson (11) and former Southern Illinois head coach "Itchy" Jones (4) - receiving that honor more times than Schrage. Longtime Missouri State head coach Keith Guttin and the recently-retired Bob Warn of Indiana State also have been three-time MVC coaches of the year.

The Missouri Valley Conference has rated as one of the nation's top college baseball leagues in recent years, led by the likes of perennial national power Wichita State, Missouri State - which advanced to the 2003 College World (as Southwest Missouri State) - and Schrage's alma mater Creighton. During the past four years alone (2003-06), four different MVC teams have advanced to the NCAAs. All nine current MVC teams have made NCAA appearances.
