ALPHABETICAL LISTING OF CAMPUS BUILDINGS

History and Governance

The University of Notre Dame was founded in 1842 by a young priest of a French missionary order called the Congregation of Holy Cross and seven Holy Cross brothers. Father Edward F. Sorin started his school in the northern Indiana wilderness with about $300 and three log buildings in bad repair, and in 1844 he received a charter from the state legislature. His initial educational program adapted the classic liberal arts curriculum to the needs of the frontier. Science entered the curriculum in 1865, followed by law (1869) and engineering (1873), the last two academic offerings being the first under Catholic auspices in America. A graduate program came in 1918, followed by the College of Business Administration in 1921. The University was governed by the Holy Cross Fathers until 1967, when it became one of the first major Catholic universities to transfer governance to a lay Board of Trustees. Rev. John I. Jenkins, C.S.C., is Notre Dame's 17th president.

Physical Campus and Plant

Notre Dame's 1,250-acre campus, with its twin lakes and wooded areas, is located just north of the city limits of South Bend, Ind., and is part of a metro population area of more than 258,000. The University's physical plant has an insured replacement value of more than $2.2 billion and includes some of the world's most recognized campus landmarks.

Academic Program

Notre Dame's main academic units are the four undergraduate colleges—Arts and Letters, Science, Engineering, and Business—and the School of Architecture. On the post-baccalaureate level, the Graduate School contains 24 doctoral and 43 master's degree programs in and among 30 institutes and departments of the University.

In addition, there are professional programs leading to the M.B.A. in the Mendoza College of Business, the J.D. in the Law School, and the master of divinity in the Department of Theology. The University's Center for Continuing Education offers a wide range of opportunities for life-long learning at all educational levels.

Research Facilities

The University library system contains about 3 million volumes, 3.2 million microform units, 20,800 audiovisual items, and subscriptions to some 11,200 serials.

Faculty research is supported by grants totaling approximately $73 million annually. Representative major research areas include vector biology and parasitic disease, chemistry of blood proteins, microelectronics-materials science, philosophy of religion, history and philosophy of science, psychology and sociology of the family unit, the ethical dimensions of business decisions, and the impact of the multinational corporation.

Faculty

Notre Dame's faculty numbers 1,110, with an additional 390 professional specialists, research fellows, librarians, and administrative faculty.

Admissions and Enrollment

Admission is highly competitive, with more than five applicants for each freshman class position. A full two-thirds of first-year students graduated in the top 5 percent of their high school classes, and 32 percent of these freshmen were among the top five students in their graduating classes. Undergraduate enrollment is some 8,300, and about 85 percent of undergraduates are Catholic. The University became coeducational in 1972, and women now make up 45 percent of both undergraduate and overall enrollment. Some 1,600 students are enrolled in graduate programs, and another 1,500 are in the Law School and MBA programs.

Tuition and Student Aid

Undergraduate tuition for the 2006-2007 academic year is $33,407 with room and board averaging $8,730. More than three-fourths of Notre Dame undergraduates receive some sort of financial aid which in 2005-2006 totalled more than $155 million from all sources. Graduates received approximately $87.5 million.

Student Body

Notre Dame is one of a handful of truly national universities—its student body comes from all over the country. It is also a residential university, with 80 percent of its undergraduates living in 27 campus halls.

While intercollegiate sports, particularly Notre Dame's legendary football teams, are an important facet of student life, the University's varsity athletes meet the same academic standards required of all students and graduate at about the same rate: 90 percent or better.

Among the top 20 major universities, Notre Dame has the highest percentage of students studying abroad.

Alumni

The University has 118,000 plus Alumni, most of them organized into a worldwide network of 264 alumni clubs.

Finances

The current budget totals almost $700 million, and the endowment is about $5 billion at estimated market value. Since 1960, the University has received more than $2.2 billion in gifts and grants.

Directions to the campus

The University is located just south of the Indiana Toll Road (Interstate 80/90) and just east of Indiana 933. From the Toll Road, use exit 77 (South Bend/Notre Dame) and turn right (south) onto Indiana 933 (Michigan Street). Turn left (east) onto Angela Boulevard (the fourth light), drive about one mile and turn left (north) onto Notre Dame Avenue (the first light).
