2001 NCAA Tournament

Notre Dame 98, Alcorn State 49 (First Round)

March 17, 2001 Joyce Center (Notre Dame, Ind.)

Playing host to an NCAA Tournament subregional for the second consecutive year, Midwest Region top-seed Notre Dame also began the 2000 NCAA championship on Saint Patrick's Day for the second straight year against 16th-seeded Alcorn State. All 12 players scored for the Irish, and senior All-American Ruth Riley led all scorers 16 points in 20 minutes of action to lead the Irish to their 98-49 win.

Notre Dame, wearing green jerseys for the first time all season, shot 54.5 percent from the field and held the Lady Braves to 21.1 percent. Five Notre Dame players scored in double figures as the Irish built a 47-23 halftime lead. Junior Ericka Haney had 14 points on 7-13 shooting, while sophomore Amanda Barksdale came off the bench to score a career-high 10 points and grab a career-high 11 rebounds in 19 minutes for her first career double-double.

Taresha Coleman made 5-11 three-point field goals for a team-high 15 points for Alcorn State, which attempted 41 three pointers, the second most in an NCAA Tournament game. The Lady Braves made just nine of those 41 attempts, while just six of their total field goals came inside the three-point arc.

Notre Dame used a 19-1 run over the final 7:20 of the first half to pull away from Alcorn State. Coach Muffet McGraw's squad won its NCAA first-round game for the sixth consecutive year.

Notre Dame 88, Michigan 54 (Second Round)

March 19, 2001

Joyce Center (Notre Dame, Ind.)

Notre Dame and Michigan met for 11th time and for just the first time since 1992 in the NCAA second round. The eighth-seed Wolverines entered the game after a first-round overtime win over ninth-seeded Virginia – their first NCAA Tournament win since 1990 and second all-time. Notre Dame would deny Michigan its first NCAA regional semifinal appearance, the Irish scored 44 points in each half to beat the Wolverines 88-54 in front of 9,597 – Notre Dame's third largest crowd ever – to reach the NCAA Sweet Sixteen for the fourth time in the last five years.

Senior All-American Ruth Riley led all scorers once again with 21 points on 8-11 shooting in 26 minutes of action. Senior Kelley Siemon added 16 points, six rebounds and a season-high five assists. Freshman Jeneka Joyce scored a career-high 14 points on 5-9 shooting, including 4-8 from three-point range. Raina Goodlow led Michigan with 16 points, Stephanie Gandy and Jennifer Smith both added 10 points.

Six first-half three pointers, three each from Joyce and sophomore Alicia Ratay, helped the Irish pull away for a 44-28 halftime lead. Joyce nailed a three-pointer at the buzzer for Notre Dame's largest lead of the first half.

Michigan, which throughout the season had made a number of comebacks after trailing at halftime (including overcoming a 17-point deficit vs. Virginia in the first round), watched Notre Dame use a 17-6 run to start the second half, as the Irish built a 25-point advantage just five minutes in the second half. The lead would grow to as many as 37 points before the 88-54 final -- Michigan's worst loss of the season.

All 12 players on the Irish roster scored for the second straight game.

Notre Dame 69 • Utah 54 (Regional Semifinal)

March 24, 2001

Pepsi Center (Denver, Colo.)

Senior All-American Ruth Riley recorded her ninth double-double of the season with 24 points and 14 rebounds to lead top-seeded Notre Dame to a 69-54 win over No. 5 seed Utah in the Midwest Regional at the Pepsi Center in Denver, Colo. Notre Dame, making its fourth Sweet Sixteen appearance in the last five seasons, advanced to the Elite Eight for the second time in school history.

Riley, who also recorded a career high six assists, led four Irish players in double figures. Senior guard Niele Ivey added 15 points, while sophomores Alicia Ratay and Ericka Haney added 11 and 10 points respectively. Erin Gibbons led Utah with 14 points as the Irish limited the Utes to just 35.8 percent shooting (19-for-53) in the game.

The win improved Notre Dame to 31-2 overall, equalling the school record for wins. Utah, which advanced to the Sweet Sixteen for the first time, ended its season with a 28-4 overall record.

The Irish jumped out to a 32-25 halftime lead getting eight points from Ratay and Ivey and six from Riley and senior forward Kelley Siemon as Notre Dame shot 52.0 percent (13-25) in the opening stanza.

The second half belonged to Riley as the Irish center scored 18 of her game-high 24 points and grabbed nine of her game-high 14 rebounds after intermission. That included 12 of Notre Dame's first 13 points in the second half as the Irish held off an early Utah run before finishing with the 15-point margin of victory.

The Utes, who came into the game with the nation's top-ranked defense, held the Irish to eight points (seven by Riley) over the first eight minutes of the second half. When Gibbons knocked down a pair of free throws for Utah at the 12:04 mark, the Notre Dame lead was just two at 40-38.

From there, Riley scored Notre Dame's next five points to jump start a 27-10 Irish run to open a 19-point lead, 67-48, with 2:19 left in the game.

The Irish finished the game shooting 47.3 percent (26-55) and outrebounded Utah by a 41-28 margin in the game.

Notre Dame's 15-point margin of victory was its smallest of the NCAA Tournament as the Irish won their first three games by an average of 32.7 points per game.

In the second half, Riley took over the game scoring 22 points, including 11 in a row after Anderson fouled out to allow the Irish extend a 61-52 lead.

Siemon was eight-for-11 from the floor to score 16 points while leading the Irish with seven rebounds in the game.

March 30, 2001 Savvis Center (St. Louis, Mo.)

The ultimate setting of the NCAA Final Four was the stage on which BIG EAST Conference rivals Notre Dame and Connecticut met for the third time in 2000-01. The matchup featuring the Irish and Huskies marked the first-ever showdown between the two league powerhouses in NCAA competition.

With the season series tied at 1-1, this game certainly proved to be the most significant in the 13-game series history. Notre Dame had earned its first-ever win over Connecticut on Jan. 15 when the Irish dethroned the top-ranked and defending national champions, 92-76 on the floor of the Joyce Center. The Huskies won the second meeting in the championship game of the BIG EAST tournament, 78-76 on a last-second buzzer-beater.

The third matchup was a tale of two halves as Connecticut led 49-37 at the intermission. The Irish, facing their largest halftime deficit of the season, exploded for 53 second-half points after trailing by as many as 16 points in the first half and prevailed with a convincing 90-75 victory to secure its first-ever appearance in the NCAA championship game. Notre Dame held Connecticut to just 26 second-half points and 23.7-percent shooting in the final 20 minutes while putting together the biggest comeback in NCAA Final Four history.

All five Irish starters scored in double figures with Niele Ivey and Alicia Ratay combining for 41 points. Ivey had a game-high 21 points, while Ratay scored 20 points, grabbed eight rebounds and dished off 5 assists. Ruth Riley chipped in 18 points with Ericka Haney notching a double-double as she scored 15 ponts and grabbed 10 rebonds. Kelley Siemon was the final Irish starter in double figures as she tossed in 11 points and dished off six assists.

Notre Dame shot 57.1 percent in the second half using a 24-7 run to start the second half. The Irish grabbed its first lead of the game with 12:40 remaining on Ratay's three-pointer. After a couple of lead changes, Ivey's two free throws at the 9:47 mark gave the Irish a lead they would never relinquish as they outscored Connecticut 25-10 in the final nine minutes of the game.

Notre Dame 68 • Purdue 66 (National Final)

April 1, 2001 Savvis Center (St. Louis, Mo.)

It was a storybook ending to a storybook career for center Ruth Riley and her senior teammates as Notre Dame claimed its first-ever basketball national championship with a 68-66 victory over in-state rival Purdue at the Savvis

Center in St. Louis. With the score tied 66-66 and 5.8 seconds remaining on the clock, Riley sank two free throws as the Irish staged a second-half comeback and rallied for the win for the second time in three nights. She scored her team's final four points when her layup with 1:01 remaining tied the game for the eighth time.

Riley, who was named Most Outstanding Player of the NCAA Final Four, capped off her sensational career with a 28-point, 13-rebound performance in the championship game. In the process, she became the school's all-time leading rebounder and the first Notre Dame player to grab more than 1,000 rebounds in her career.

After shooting just 35.5 pecent in the first half (11-31), the Irish were nearly flawless in the final 20 minutes as they connected on 60.0 percent of their shots (15-25) from the floor.

St. Louis native Niele Ivey, playing in front of her family and friends, recorded 12 points and four assists and played the entire 40 minutes. Her status was in doubt as to how many minutes she would play after suffering a slight ankle sprain in Notre Dame's semifinal win over Connecticut. Junior Ericka Haney had another outstanding game as she finished with 13 points. Kelley Siemon also netted double figures in her final game in an Irish uniform as she finished with 10 points, nine rebounds and six assists as she also played the entire game.

Purdue was led by Katie Douglas' 18 points, while freshman Shalicia Hurns and Shereka Wright also added 17 points each.

Notre Dame trailed 19-7 with 11:26 remaining in the first half following Douglas' three-pointer, but rallied to close the gap to three points (25-22) with 6:16 left. The two teams traded baskets for the remainder of the first half with the Boilermakers holding a 32-26 halftime advantage.

The Irish started the second half with an 8-0 and grabbed their first lead of the game 34-32 at the 2:20 mark. The Boilermakers countered with a run of their own and led by as many as eight (49-41) with 12:33 remaining in the contest. Notre Dame its second comeback of the game and led 64-63 with 2:07 remaining on Ivey's layup, but Douglas' three-point play after being fouled by Siemon gave Purdue a 66-64 advantage with 1:22 left to play.

Ruth Riley cuts down the nets at the Savvis Center after Notre Dame claimed its first NCAA title with a 68-66 win over Purdue on April 1, 2001. Riley was named the Final Four's Most Outstanding Player after collecting 28 points, 13 rebounds and seven blocked shots in the championship game against the Boilermakers.

2002 NCAA Tournament

Notre Dame 58 • New Mexico 44 (First Round)

March 15, 2002 Thompson-Boling Arena (Knoxville, Tenn.)

On paper, Notre Dame was listed as the defending national champion, reaching the NCAA tournament for the seventh consecutive season and ninth time in the 25-year history of the program. In reality, the Irish squad that took the floor against New Mexico in the first round of the 2002 NCAA tournament bore little resemblance to the team which had captivated the nation with its magical run to the title less than a year earlier. Six freshmen replaced a talented core of five seniors, led by 2001 consensus national player of the year Ruth Rilev.

Despite having little meaningful postseason experience under its collective belts, seventh-seeded Notre Dame looked like a group of wily veterans, using a record-setting defensive performance to topple the Lobos, 58-44, and advance to the second round in the Midwest Region. With the victory, the Irish extended their school-record winning streak in the NCAA tournament to seven games and picked up at least one conquest in their seventh straight tournament.

The first half was a nail-biting affair with six lead changes and seven ties in the opening 20 minutes. Neither side led by more than five points in the half, but the Lobos shot 51.9 percent in the period to take a 33-30 lead at the intermission. It was an edge they would maintain through the first five minutes of the second stanza.

Trailing 39-36 at the 15:10 mark, Notre Dame put together one of the finest defensive displays in NCAA tournament history, holding New Mexico without a point for the next 12:13 and not allowing the Lobos to hit another field goal until only three seconds remained. The 11 second-half points scored by UNM tied the NCAA Midwest Region record for first and second round games, as the Irish limited their opponents to a woeful 16.7 percent (4-24) from the field in the period.

Junior guard Alicia Ratay led all scorers with 14 points, while freshman sensation Jacqueline Batteast, still recovering from a late-season knee injury, came off the bench to score 13 points and pluck five rebounds. Melissa Forest tallied 12 points in a reserve role to lead New Mexico, which was making just its second NCAA tournament appearance.

The victory was the 20th of the season for Notre Dame, marking the ninth consecutive year in which the Irish had reached the 20-win plateau.

Tennessee 89 • Notre Dame 50 (Second Round)

March 17, 2002 Thompson-Boling Arena (Knoxville, Tenn.)

Notre Dame appeared to have many things in its favor heading into a second-round NCAA tournament matchup at sixth-ranked Tennessee. The Irish were playing on St. Patrick's Day, a date on which they held a 3-1 all-time mark. They were coming in as the seventh seed in the Midwest Region, where they had won seven of their previous eight NCAA tournament games. And, they were sporting green jerseys for the sixth time in the history of the program, having won the previous five times they had worn the lucky color.

However, green also described the Irish roster, half of which were freshmen and whom were playing in only their second NCAA tournament game. That inexperience would play a major role against the Lady Vols, as the hosts raced out to a 19-8 lead and never looked back, ending Notre Dame's reign as NCAA champion with an 89-50 victory at Thompson-Boling Arena.

The postseason nerves appeared to catch up with the Irish, as they shot a season-low 28.8 percent (17-59) from the floor and committed a season-high 26 fouls. Tennessee took advantage of Notre Dame's troubles, converting on 27 of 35 free throws (77.1 percent) and owning a 51-37 edge in the rebounding column.

Freshman guard Kelsey Wicks was the only Irish player to score in double figures, finishing with 10 points. Freshman center Teresa Borton was the high rebounder for Notre Dame, collecting six boards in a reserve effort. Three Lady Vols scored in double figures, paced by Kara Lawson's 16 points, and Courtney McDaniel led all players with nine rebounds.

2003 NCAA Tournament

Notre Dame 59 • Arizona 47 (First Round)

March 23, 2003 Bramlage Coliseum (Manhattan, Kan.)

Respect is a quality that must be earned, rather than simply expected. Notre Dame came into the 2003 NCAA Tournament in search of respect after an up-and-down season that had seen the Irish ranked as high as eighth in the nation at one time. However, a rocky start in BIG EAST Conference play left Notre Dame scrambling to make up ground late in the year and resulted in many observers tabbing the Irish as a "bubble team" that was fortunate just to be tasting the rarified air of postseason play.

As a No. 11 seed in the East Region, Notre Dame was sent up against Pac-10 Conference runner-up Arizona, the same Wildcat squad that had ousted the Irish on a buzzer-beating shot in Tucson a year earlier. However, Notre Dame had one key factor in its favor — NCAA Tournament experience. Of the 10 players on the Irish roster, seven had already played in the postseason, while much of UA's youthful lineup had never been to the "Big Dance." That turned out to be a critical point as the Irish claimed their eighth consecutive NCAA first-round win, 59-47 over the Wildcats.

With the victory, Notre Dame logged a pair of important milestones. First, it was the 20th win of the season for the Irish, making Notre Dame one of only six schools in the nation to record 10 consecutive 20-win campaigns. In addition, head coach Muffet McGraw registered the 450th victory of her illustrious coaching career, with more than three-quarters of those conquests earned under the Golden Dome.

Coming into the game, Notre Dame and Arizona had not played in more than a week and the long layoff showed in the first half. The teams combined for 23 turnovers and both posted miserable shooting percentages (UA - .226, ND - .194), resulting in a tight, low-scoring contest. A late 5-0 run by the Wildcats was offset by six consecutive Irish points, giving Notre Dame a 23-21 lead at the break.

The two sides stayed virtually on even terms through the first seven minutes of the second half. Arizona wiped out an early four-point deficit and opened up a 37-34 lead at the 13-minute mark when Krista Warren knocked down a pair of free throws. However, in much the same manner as they won their 2002 NCAA opening round game vs. New Mexico, the Irish relied on their defense to carry the day. Over the next 9:38, Notre Dame held Arizona to a single point, going on a 15-1 run that rocked the Wildcats, who would get no closer than nine points the rest of the Senior guard Alicia Ratay had the most NCAA Tournament experience of any Irish player and it showed, as she lit up Arizona for a game-high 20 points, including a trio of three-point field goals, and added a team-high nine rebounds. Freshman forward Courtney LaVere pitched in with 15 points and seven rebounds in her postseason debut. As a team, the Irish chalked up 16 steals, matching the second-highest NCAA Tournament total in school history.

Megan Duffy scored 10 points and canned all four of her free throw attempts in the final 61 seconds to help Notre Dame knock off Kansas State, 59-53 in the second round of the 2003 NCAA Tournament.

Notre Dame 59 • Kansas State 53 (Second Round)

March 25, 2003 Bramlage Coliseum (Manhattan, Kan.)

In college athletics, history can be an excellent teacher and sometimes, it can even be a precursor of things to come. The folks in Manhattan, Kan., will now attest to that.

Twice in its previous nine NCAA Tournament appearances, Notre Dame had faced a top-three seed on its home floor in the second round and had come away victorious, turning the trick at Texas in 1997 and Texas Tech in 1998. Ironically, both of those schools are Big XII Conference members, as is Kansas State, which provided the opposition for the Irish in the second round of the 2003 tourney. The eighth-ranked (and No. 3 seeded) Wildcats were considered by many to be a darkhorse contender to reach the Final Four, but by the time night fell on Manhattan, it was Notre Dame's postseason dreams that remained in sharp

Junior guard Le'Tania Severe rang up a team-high 17 points, pacing four Irish players in double figures as Notre Dame shocked a partisan Bramlage Coliseum crowd of more than 11,000 fans with a 59-53 victory over Kansas State, snapping the nation's second-longest home winning streak at 22 games. With the win, the Irish punched their ticket to the NCAA Sweet Sixteen for the fifth time in seven seasons, a feat only seven other schools in the country can match.

Much of the pre-game talk centered around the Wildcats' explosive offense which had averaged more than 75 points per game during the regular season. Meanwhile, Notre Dame had built its fortunes around a sturdy defense that was yielding less than 62 points per contest. Early on, the Irish were getting the better of this matchup, jumping out to a 14-4 lead behind seven early points by Severe. K-State battled back and used a 14-3 run late in the first half to take a 31-28 lead to the locker room. Little did the Wildcat faithful know that their team would never hold such α edge for the rest of the night.

Calling upon its history of strong second-half defensive performances in the NCAA Tournament. Notre Dame spun another masterpiece against Kansas State. The Irish threw a blanket over the Wildcats and held the hosts without a field goal for the first 11:03 of the season half. Actually, the drought stretched a total of 12 minutes and 43 seconds, dating back to the closing moments of the first half. In that time, K-State missed 12 consecutive shots from the floor, had seven turnovers and did not even manage an offensive rebound until the final seven seconds of the run

However, for all the defensive success the Irish had, they could not put the Wildcats away, opening up just a 40-32 lead midway through the period. Laurie Koehn finally broke the seal for K-State with a three-pointer at the 8:57 mark, but Notre Dame continued to cling to its lead, building the margin up to nine points (48-39) on a free throw by senior guard Alicia Ratay with six minutes to go

Koehn slowly helped bring the Wildcats back one final time, hitting another three-pointer (her seventh of the game) and two free throws for a 51-49 Irish lead with 1:13 left. K-State then began fouling Notre Dame and forcing the visitors to win the game at the free throw line. The Irish were up to the challenge, hitting all eight of their charities in the final 61 seconds, including six by freshmen (four by guard Megan Duffy) to preserve one of the signature wins of the 2003 NCAA

Purdue 66 • Notre Dame 47 (Regional Semifinal)

March 30, 2003 University of Dayton Arena (Dayton, Ohio)

For the fourth time in eight seasons, Notre Dame and Purdue squared off in the NCAA Tournament when they met up in the 2003 East Regional semifinals. The Irish had taken two of the previous three encounters, including a memorable two-point win in the 2001 national championship game. The fourth matchup provided much of the same intensity that the first three games had featured, but in the end, Purdue found the winning combination, ending Notre Dame's season, 66-47 at the University of Dayton Arena in Dayton, Ohio.

Seeking to become the lowest seed ever to reach the Elite Eight, the Irish came out cold offensively, misfiring on five of their first six shots from the floor. An early 12-3 Purdue run gave the Boilermakers their largest lead of the first half just over seven minutes into the contest. Still, Notre Dame doggedly pursued their in-state rival throughout the opening period and eventually pulled even at 27-27 on a jumper by senior guard Alicia Ratay with a minute to go in the half. A pair of Boilermaker three-pointers, sandwiched around two Ratay free throws, took some steam out of the Irish comeback and gave Purdue a 33-29 edge at halftime.

Notre Dame had made its name in the 2003 NCAA Tournament on a strong defense, but it was the Boilers who came up with the timely stops early in the second half. Just as in the first half, the Irish struggled to find their shooting eye early in the second frame, going 2-for-10 from the field and turning the ball over four times in that stretch. When the smoke cleared, Purdue had a seemingly comfortable 55-33 lead with 12:36 remaining.

Boxed into a corner, the Irish came fighting back behind their trademark defense, which turned around and held the Boilermakers scoreless over the next 7:15. Meanwhile, the Notre Dame offense managed to slice the Purdue lead to 12 points twice, the second coming on a layup by sophomore forward Jacqueline Batteast at the 4:30 mark. It would be as close as the Irish would come, thanks to another Notre Dame dry spell that resulted in only two points the rest of the way.

Playing in her final game for the Irish, Ratay scored a team-high 16 points, while Batteast plucked a game-high 12 rebounds and blocked four shots. Sophomore center Teresa Borton added 10 rebounds and a career-high five blocks for Notre Dame. Four players scored in double figures for Purdue, led by Erika Valek who carded 19 points.

2004 NCAA Tournament

Notre Dame 69 • SMS 65 (OT) (First Round)

March 21, 2004 Joyce Center (Notre Dame, Ind.)

According to the old saying, "it's not the size of the dog in the fight, but the size of the fight in the dog." Notre Dame lost sight of that fact for a while in its 2004 NCAA Tournament opener against Southwest Missouri State and it nearly ended the season for the Irish.

Playing before an enthusiastic crowd on its own Joyce Center floor, fifth-seeded Notre Dame raced out to an early double-digit lead in the East Region first-round game, only to see the No. 12 seed Lady Bears rally back and force overtime before the Irish prevailed in the extra session, 69-65. It was the first time the Irish had ever been pushed to overtime in NCAA Tournament play, but the end result was an eighth consecutive NCAA opening-round win for Notre Dame.

Junior forward Jacqueline Batteast showed no signs of repeating the misery she endured in the 2003 NCAA Tournament, rolling up a double-double with a game-high 17 points and 11 rebounds. Sophomore forward Courtney LaVere also picked an excellent time to notch her first double-double of the season, logging 11 points and a career-high 13 rebounds, including seven offensive boards. The Irish backcourt also was sharp, as sophomore guard Megan Duffy scored 16 points and senior captain Le Tania Severe chipped in with 11 points, seven rebounds and five assists while playing a career-best 43 minutes.

Jenni Lingor and Kari Koch shared team-high scoring honors for SMS with 15 points, while lanky post Stephanie Busbey came off the bench to knock down five of six shots and score 10 points.

Notre Dame wasted little time in asserting itself offensively, bolting to an 18-6 lead less than seven minutes into the game. Showing veteran poise from the point guard spot, Duffy scored eight points in that early spurt, banging down a pair of three-pointers. Meanwhile, the Missouri Valley Conference champion Lady Bears appeared shell-shocked by their surroundings, misfiring on seven of their first nine shots. The Irish took advantage of the visitors' struggles and pumped their margin up to 29-13 at the 9:10 mark of the first half on a jumper in the lane by Batteast.

During the ensuing media timeout, SMS coach Katie Abrahamson-Henderson challenged her team to fight through their nerves and her charges responded. The Lady Bears went on a 14-4 run to close out the first half and cut their deficit to a more manageable 33-27 score. The combination of Lingor and Koch accounted for eight points in the rally. SMS stayed within striking distance early in the second half, keeping it at a one or two possession game for the first 10 minutes. The Lady Bears then erupted again, putting together an 11-4 charge that ended with the upstarts holding a 52-50 lead after K.C. Cowgill's layup with 6:36 to play.

After seeing its big lead evaporate completely, Notre Dame wasn't about to pack up and head for the hills. Severe took her captain's title to heart and ripped off five of the next seven Irish points, including two free throws after a controversial technical foul on Abrahamson-Henderson, and Notre Dame was back in front, 57-55 with 3:21 left. SMS guard Morgan Hohenberger, who had been fairly quiet to that point, answered with a pair of clutch baskets, the second coming with her team down by two and 26 seconds remaining. Both sides had a chance to win in the closing seconds, but could not convert.

The overtime period largely belonged to Notre Dame, as the Irish scored the first five points of the bonus stanza. Senior guard Monique Hernandez put Notre Dame ahead for good on a jumper with two minutes gone in the frame. Severe then followed with two crippling drives and assists to LaVere for easy baskets, putting the Irish on top 65-59 with 39 seconds to go. SMS finally got going as Lingor buried a three-pointer six seconds later, but Duffy and Severe each made two free throws in the waning moments as Notre Dame clinched its 11th consecutive 20-win season.

Courtney LaVere scored two crucial baskets in overtime to help Notre Dame edge past Southwest Missouri State in the first round of the 2004 NCAA Tournament.

Notre Dame 59 • Middle Tennessee 46 (Second Round)

March 23, 2004 Joyce Center (Notre Dame, Ind.)

Technical Foul: SMS bench

Coming into the 2003-04 season, junior forward Jacqueline Batteast talked about how the added strength she had gained in the offseason would pay dividends for herself and her teammates. Against Middle Tennessee, the South Bend native used that strength to put Notre Dame on her back and almost single-handedly carry the Irish into the Sweet Sixteen.

In one of the greatest individual NCAA Tournament performances ever by a Notre Dame player, Batteast made 13 of 17 shots from the field, scoring 27 points and grabbing 12 rebounds in only 28 minutes as the Irish pulled away for a 59-46 win over Middle Tennessee in an East Region second round game at the Joyce Center. With the victory, the Irish locked up their second consecutive trip to the Sweet Sixteen and their sixth regional semifinal berth in the past eight seasons.

Batteast was the catalyst for a Notre Dame squad that shot a blistering 55.3 percent from the floor, matching the fourth-best NCAA field goal percentage mark in school history. Senior guard Jeneka Joyce complemented Batteast's performance by canning three of four three-point attempts and scoring nine points in 17 minutes of court time. Freshman forward Crystal Erwin also turned in a strong outing — literally — by collecting seven points, five rebounds and four steals while waging a physical battle in the paint.

Unlike its opening-round win over Southwest Missouri State, Notre Dame trailed for much of the first half, falling behind by five points early and later enduring a quartet of four-point deficits. However, the Irish outscored Middle Tennessee, 12-5, in the final five minutes of the first half, grabbing a 29-26 lead at the intermission on a jumper by Batteast and a fastbreak layup by senior guard Monique Hernandez in the waning seconds of the period.

The final 20 minutes proved to be a perfect marriage of Notre Dame's offensive muscle and signature defensive pressure. The Irish went on an 18-1 run to begin the second half, with Batteast scoring 12 points (6-for-7 shooting) and Joyce burying a pair of three-pointers to give Notre Dame a 47-27 lead at the 11:43 mark. On the other end, the Irish held the Blue Raiders without a field goal during the first 9:16 of the stanza before Tia Stovall finally broke the ice with a jumper in the lane. By then, the die had been cast and the final score was the only question remaining. Batteast capped off her stellar night with a foul line jumper at the four-minute junction, allowing her to tie her career-high scoring total and also match the Irish record for most field goals in an NCAA Tournament game (13 by Beth Morgan vs. Alabama in 1997).

Penn State 55 • Notre Dame 49 (Regional Semifinal)

March 27, 2004

Hartford Civic Center (Hartford, Conn.)

Notre Dame did nearly everything it wanted to do in its East Regional semifinal matchup with top-seeded Penn State. The Irish turned the game into a defensive slugfest, keeping the high-powered Lady Lion offense and one of the nation's top scorers, PSU guard Kelly Mazzante, off balance all day long. In the end, it would still not be quite enough.

Mazzante nailed a transition jumper with 46 seconds remaining and Notre Dame missed two shots to tie or take the lead in the final minute as fifth-ranked Penn State squeezed out a 55-49 victory over the Irish at the Hartford Civic Center. It was a bitter pill for Notre Dame to swallow, made even more distasteful by its shooting struggles from the floor (.322) and the foul line (.600).

Junior forward Jacqueline Batteast wrapped up a superb 2004 NCAA Tournament with her third consecutive double-double, amassing game highs of 22 points and 12 rebounds. Senior guard Le Tania Severe ended her Irish career

Jacqueline Batteast tied a Notre Dame postseason record by making 13 field goals as the Irish rolled past Middle Tennessee in the second round of the 2004 NCAA Tournament with nine points and a game-high six steals, the latter figure tying for the second-best NCAA tourney mark in school history. Jessica Brungo scored a teamhigh 20 points and Mazzante added 17 points for PSU.

Notre Dame's shooting woes were evident from the outset, as the Irish missed on five of their first six shots. However, Penn State was only able to open up a sixpoint lead, which was quickly erased when Notre Dame went on a 9-0 run behind four points from Severe. The Irish lead ballooned to five points (20-15) before the Lady Lions countered with an 8-2 spurt in the final 3:34 of the period to take a one-point edge at the break.

In the second half, Notre Dame seemed unfazed by its surroundings or circumstances, regaining a pair of five-point leads, the second at 41-36 on a jumper by sophomore forward Courtney LaVere with 10:24 to play. Penn State responded again with nine of the next 11 points to retake a two-point lead three minutes later. It stayed a one-possession game for either side during the next six minutes with the final tie coming at 49-49 on a Batteast layup at the 1:47 mark.

The Irish had two chances to grab the lead again, but Batteast's jumper with 57 seconds left came up just short and LaVere's putback attempt didn't find the mark. Mazzante then leaked out on the break and hit a pull-up jumper on the baseline to put her team in front for good. She added a steal on Notre Dame's next possession and the Lady Lions locked up the win with two free throws each from Brungo and Tanisha Wright inthe final half-minute.

retired from the WNBA in 2003 after a successful eight-year professional career. She spent two years as a point guard for the WNBA's New York Liberty (1998-99) before being drafted by the Portland Fire in the 2000 WNBA Expansion Draft. But before she could begin her career with the Fire, Washington was traded to Houston, where she helped lead the Comets to their fourth consecutive teae at Notre Dame. Washington had experience playing in both U.S. professional leagues. She was drafted by the ABL's Portland Power in their inaugural season and played for that team during the 1996-97 campaign. As the starting point guard on that squad, she averaged 3.4 points, 3.0 rebounds and 1.7 assists.

traded to the Indiana Fever in 2002, where she was reunited with Ivey, her former pro-

Haney, Meaghan Leahy (a reserve on the '01 NCAA championship team) and Majenica Rupe ('93) all played in 2003 in the National Women's Basketball League (NWBL), a winter professional circuit which features numerous WNBA players who do not wish to travel overseas during the offseason. Haney and Rupe suited up for the Grand Rapids Blizzard, while Leahy played for the Springfield (Mass.) Spirit.

In the winter of 2004, Riley signed on the with NWBL's Colorado Chill, averaging 13.1 points and 8.4 rebounds per game while leading her team a league-best 15-6 record and a spot in the NWBL Finals. In that championship game, she piled up 19 points and 21 rebounds, but the Chill fell to the Dallas Fury, 72-69.

Two members of Notre Dame's 1997 Final Four squad also spent time in the pro ranks. After a season with the ABL's Philadelphia Rage, Beth Morgan (Cunningham) signed with the WNBA in May of 2000 and was assigned to the Washington Mystics, where she played in 21 games and averaged 2.8 points and 1.0 rebounds per game that year. Katryna Gaither also was signed by the WNBA in May of 2000 and was assigned to the Utah Starzz. After being released from the Starzz, Gaither was picked up by the Indiana Fever, where she finished out the 2000 campaign. After a season in Europe, Gaither returned to the WNBA in 2002, spending time with the Cleveland Rockers, Los Angeles Sparks and Washington Mystics.

Ruth Riley '01 Miami Sol 2001-02; Detroit Shock 2003-04 (WNBA)

The name Notre Dame has appeared prominently on the rosters of the USA Women's Basketball national team squads during the last decade.

Most recently, standout center Ruth Riley ('01) was a member of the 2004 U.S. Senior National Team that went undefeated and won the gold medal at the Athens Olympics. Riley averaged 3.4 points and 2.4 rebounds per game with a .667 field goal percentage during the Games, seeing action in seven of Team USA's eight contests.

Riley thus becomes one of only six players in history to win a NCAA title (Notre Dame - 2001), a WNBA championship (Detroit - 2003) and an Olympic gold medal (2004). She also capped off an unprecedented gold rush by Notre Dame alumnae in Athens, as former Irish student-athletes won four gold medals at the '04 Olympics.

Riley's Olympic stint was her third with the USA Women's Basketball program. As a member of the 1999 U.S. World University Games team, she was the third-leading scorer (10.3 ppg.) and second-leading rebounder (5.1 rpg.) as she helped her squad, coached by Penn State's Rene Portland, to a 4-2 record in capturing the silver medal. She scored in double figures in four of the six contests with her best game coming against South Africa when she had 16 points and nine rebounds, personal highs during the tournament. Riley also averaged 7.3 points and 5.3 rebounds at the Spanish International Tournament, a tuneup to the World University Games.

Following her freshman season, Riley was $\alpha$  dominant force as  $\alpha$  member of the 1998 USA Women's Select Team. She helped the squad to  $\alpha$  7-1 record against teams from Puerto Rico, Poland and Spain during its 15-day tour. The team was headed up by current Ole Miss head coach Carol Ross.

Riley was the team's second leading scorer (10.3 ppg.) and top rebounder (7.5 rpg.). She recorded two double-double performances as the Irish went 3-0 against Puerto Rico to open the tour. She had 12 points and 11 rebounds in the opening game, and in the third and final contest versus Puerto Rico, Riley finished with 20 points and 10 rebounds. In the eight-game tour, Riley led the team in rebounding on four occasions.

Former class of 1997 standouts Beth Morgan (Cunningham) and Katryna Gaither also have been members of USA teams, competing in the summer of 1999. Both played on the U.S. Pan American Games team that won the bronze medal in Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada.

Morgan played in all seven games during the Pan Am Games and averaged 5.1 points, while Gaither played in six contests and registered 1.2 points and 1.3 rebounds.

Morgan, Notre Dame's all-time leading scorer, was the first Irish player ever invited to a national team tryout in Colorado Springs, Colo., in June of 1996. The Bloomington, Ind., native earned a spot on the USA Women's Select Team, a special developmental squad designed by USA Basketball to help give elite college players additional international experience while improving the United States' talent pool.

After being named to the squad, Morgan and the squad remained in Colorado Springs to train and scrimmage with the 1996 USA Jones Cup Team against the Russian Olympic Team.

The BIG EAST Conference was well-represented on that '96 Select team as Connecticut mentor Geno Auriemma served as head coach, while former Seton Hall forward Dana Wynne also earned a spot on the 15-player roster.

In the summer of '97, Morgan and Gaither, who ended her Irish career as the second all-time leading scorer and rebounder in school history, were named to the USA Women's World Championship Qualifying Team. The team, coached by current Auburn head coach and 2000 U.S. Olympic mentor Nell Fortner, captured the silver medal at the World Championship Qualifying Tournament in Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Prior to the Qualifying Tournament, the squad made a three-game sweep of the Canadian National Team and won both of its contests against the German National Team. The squad posted a 4-1 record and finished first at the Grand Prix of Slovakia in Myjvava, Slovakia, and went undefeated posting a 3-0 mark with victories over Lithuania, Germany and Italy to win the Super Cup tournament in Bremen, Germany.
